

Day 7
Dartmoor

Today we went to Dartmoor, which is a moor as big as London or Paris. We went hiking there - 5 kilometres. It was very interesting and we had pretty much fun. Mr. Hauk was happy about the weather, because it was foggy, misty and we had vibes of Sherlock and The Hound of the Baskervilles. We hope the 6th grade will look for some letterboxes next year and maybe they'll find some of our entries. After Dartmoor we went from Paignton to Dartmouth by steam train and ferry. That was awesome because you could see different parts of the beautiful landscape along the coast of the Atlantic Ocean. When we arrived at Dartmouth we had time to explore and relax in different places. Some of us grabbed a cookie at a bakery where we had a beautiful view out of the big shop window. There were beautiful houses with an impressive architecture. In the end we had a walk through the park. Now, on our way back to our host families, we look back on a wonderful day.
